Morehouse College

Morehouse College, in the city of Atlanta, Georgia, is operated by the American Baptist Home Mission Society, of New York, for the education of Negro young men, with special reference to the preparation of ministers and teachers.

History

The College was organized in the year 1867, in the city of Augusta, Georgia, under the name of "THE AUGUSTA INSTITUTE." In 1879, under the presidency of Rev. Joseph T. Robert, LL.D. (1871-1884), it was removed to Atlanta and incorporated under the name "ATLANTA BAPTIST SEMINARY." At this stage of its growth the institution owned only one building, that a comparatively small three-story structure, located near what is now the Terminal Station. President Robert was succeeded by President Samuel Graves, D.D., in 1885. Dr. Graves served as president until 1890, continuing as Professor of Theology for four years longer. In 1889, as the surroundings of the old location in Atlanta had become unfavorable, a new site was secured, and in the spring of 1890 the school was removed to its present location. In the autumn of this year President George Sale (1890-1906) entered upon his duties. In 1897 amendments to the charter were secured, granting full college powers and changing the name of the institution to

"ATLANTA BAPTIST COLLEGE." In 1906 President Sale resigned to become Superintendent of Education of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, and he was succeeded by President John Hope, who had been a professor on the faculty since 1898. By a vote in 1912 of the Board of Trustees, concurred in by the American Baptist Home Mission Society, and by a change in 1913 of the charter granted by the State of Georgia, the name of the institution became "MOREHOUSE COLLEGE," in honor of Rev. Henry L. Morehouse, D.D., Corresponding Secretary of the American Baptist Home Mission Society and the constant friend and benefactor of the Negro race.

Campus

The campus is thirteen acres in extent. It occupies one of the highest points of land in the city, 1,100 feet above sea-level, and commands a fine view of the city and surrounding country. For beauty and healthfulness the situation could not be surpassed. The property is on West Fair Street, at the junction of Chestnut Street, within half an hour's walk from the post-office and railroad stations. Electric cars marked "West Fair—Lee Street" leave the corner of Peachtree and Marietta Streets, and the Terminal Station, every twenty minutes, direct for the college.

Buildings

Graves Hall, erected in 1889, at a cost of $28,000, and named in honor of President Graves, is the chief college dormitory. The building has four stories above the basement, is beautifully faced with white marble, and is lighted by electricity.

Quarles Hall, erected in 1898 at a cost of $14,000, and named in honor of Rev. Frank Quarles, for many years pastor of Friendship Baptist Church, Atlanta, and president of the Georgia Baptist Convention from its organization until his death, contains the class-rooms in which the work of the English Preparatory Department is done. The entire third floor is devoted to science work, one room being a well-supplied chemical laboratory, one a physical laboratory, another a biological laboratory, and a fourth a lecture room.

Sale Hall, erected at a cost of $40,000 and occupied in October, 1910, is named in honor of President George Sale. It has a well lighted and ventilated basement with two rooms. One, containing the Manual Training Shop, is fitted with benches and sets of tools for instruction in wood-working; the other, a gymnasium, has shower-baths supplied with hot and cold water. The building is three stories above basement and contains recitation rooms for Divinity School, College, and Academy, a reception room, offices, library, and a beautiful chapel with a seating capacity of seven hundred. Connected with this building is a central heating plant.

The large demands made on Graves Hall have for years rendered the need for another dormitory imperative. The new Robert Hall is the outgrowth of this demand. The building is just completed at a total cost of $30,000. The basement floor is used as a dining-room. The three main floors above are devoted wholly to dormitory purposes, there being one or two suites for teachers. The size and proportion of the rooms, and the electric lighting and other conveniences, render this in every way one of the most satisfactory college dormitories in the South.

In addition to these buildings there are others for special purposes. The President's residence is a beautiful two-story brick house of a style of architecture in harmony with that of the larger buildings. A two-story frame building contains a printing office and the laundry. There is also on the grounds a barn.

The School Garden

About four acres have been set apart for the school garden. Regular class instruction is given in gardening, and vegetables and small fruits are raised for the college table. Cold frames and hotbeds are used during the winter months, and instruction given in their use.

SUPPORT

Morehouse College is conducted under the auspices of the American Baptist Home Mission Society of the Northern states. For its main support it depends upon a yearly grant from the funds of the Society.

Cook Memorial Chair

A fund of $20,000, a portion of the bequest of Mr. Josiah W. Cook, of Cambridge, Mass., has been set apart for the endowment of the President's chair under the name of "The Cook Memorial Chair."

Student Labor and Beneficiary Fund

This fund depends for its support upon contributions from churches, societies, and individuals. There is need of large additions to this fund in order to extend the usefulness of the college. The President will gladly correspond with churches, individuals, Sunday schools, and young people's societies with reference to this fund.

Current Expenses

For current expenses of each session, the College is dependent upon the fees paid by students for board, tuition, etc.

Need of Endowment

The location of the school is most excellent; the buildings are substantial and well-built, and are kept in thorough repair. So far as grounds and buildings are concerned, these have been secured with a view to permanence. The character of the work done and the increasing efficiency of every department insure the highest and most lasting results in the lives of the students and those among whom they labor. There is need of substantial endowment to relieve the burden upon the Home Mission Society, and to insure the permanence of the College. Money so invested will yield rich returns in good accomplished by the College.

GENERAL ADVANTAGES

Library

The library now contains over three thousand volumes. It is situated in Sale Hall and is supplied with a judicious selection of newspapers and magazines. Valuable additions have been made during the year, and new works are constantly being added. All students have daily access to the library. The college is grateful at all times for gifts that help to increase the resources and facilities of the Library.

Religious Privileges

This is emphatically a Christian school. The faculty keeps constantly in mind the fact that it was founded by a missionary organization, and is sustained by the contributions of Christian people for the Christian education of young men. While, therefore, we seek to give the best possible instruction in the literary and industrial branches, stress is placed upon moral training and the development of consecrated workers. Self-mastery, symmetrical character, high ideals and purposes are regarded as the chief ends of education.

Special attention is given to the spiritual needs of the student. The Bible has a place in the regular course of study. In the life and discipline of the school, constant effort is made to inculcate Christian principles.

MOREHOUSE GRADUATES AND STUDENTS AT DES MOINES TRAINING CAMP

Besides the daily morning and evening devotions, religious exercises are held as follows: Sunday, 1:30 P. M., Y. M. C. A.; 7:00 P. M., Preaching Service; Thursday, 6:45 P. M., Prayer-Meeting. These meetings have always proved a source of great blessing in the quickening of spiritual life among the students.

Students are allowed to attend the Sunday schools and the day services in the city churches on Sundays.

Care of Health

Constant watchcare is maintained over the health of the students. In Robert Hall is an isolated infirmary where sick students may be quite apart from the rest of the school and receive special attention.

Student Activities

There are several societies and student organizations connected with the College. The Young Men's Christian Association, for the spiritual improvement of the members and for religious work, is one of the most active organizations in the institution. It meets weekly, and under its direction numbers of students are assigned work in the various churches and Sunday schools of the city. Opportunity is thus afforded students for practical Christian work outside the College. The Bible Band also meets once a week. The Ministers' Union is an organization composed of members of the Divinity School; its object is generally to discuss subjects of interest to those looking forward to the ministry as a profession. The Pi Gamma Literary Society is composed of students of collegiate grade in Morehouse College and Spelman Seminary. It seeks general improvement along literary lines, and its meetings are held once a month. The Athenæum Publishing Company publishes each month during the school year The Athenæum, the organ of the alumni and students of Morehouse College and Spelman Seminary. Two debating societies, the College Debating Society and the Academic Debating Society, meet every other week. Under the supervision of the faculty, intercollegiate debating is allowed and encouraged; and for several years Morehouse College has engaged in a triangular contest each year with Knoxville College and Talladega College. The Glee Club and the Orchestra, both under the general direction of the Instructor in Music, offer peculiar opportunities to those who wish to improve in singing and in the use of musical instruments. The Athletic Association, a student organization, generally directs the energies of its members along the lines of football, baseball, basketball, and tennis. It also encourages track meets and, from time to time, in conference with the faculty Director of Athletics, it arranges intercollegiate contests in the various divisions of athletics. Generally, Morehouse College encourages all activities—religious, literary, athletic—which make for the development of Christian ideals and for the culture of a sound mind in a sound body.

GOVERNMENT

Admission

All students must furnish satisfactory testimonials respecting their moral character and habits. If they come from other schools they are required to present certificates of reputable dismissal and records of their class work from the proper authorities.

While students may enter at any time, it is very important that they be present on the first day of the school year, that no time be lost in commencing work.

Students from a distance are required to board at the college building.

Examinations and Promotions

On entering the college, students are examined for classification. Care is exercised to place the student where he can work to the best advantage. Examinations are held at the close of each half of the school year. Upon the results of these examinations, with those of the daily recitations, promotions are determined.

Rules

In the regulation of the conduct of the student, it is the aim of the faculty to govern by principles rather than rules. All requirements are based on the Golden Rule, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them." Regulations exist for the good of the student to secure to him in the highest possible degree the end for which he comes to college. The aim is to produce self-control, and to secure the cheerful acquiescence of the student in rules that are made for the good of all.

With these ends in view, regularity and punctuality at all regular exercises are required; absence from the grounds is permitted only by special excuse of the teachers; hours set apart for study are to be sacredly observed, and students are required to retire at a stated hour.

Correct personal habits are inculcated; cleanliness and neatness are required; the use of intoxicating liquors and tobacco and the possession of firearms or other dangerous weapons are forbidden. College sports and games are allowed and encouraged under restrictions that prevent danger to health and neglect of regular school duties. In general, such watchfulness is maintained as will insure, as far as possible, good health, progress in study, and the development of manly qualities and moral character.

These scholarships are given on condition that the holders be present, and that they maintain uniformly good deportment for the full term for which the scholarship is held. No scholarship is awarded to one whose yearly average is less than 80.

Ripley Scholarship

By the will of the late Mrs. Ann Oswald Ripley, widow of the Rev. Henry Ripley, D.D., of Newton

Center, Mass., a scholarship of $40 a year has been established in Morehouse College for the benefit of those who have the ministry in view.

Affiliated Academy Scholarships

By vote of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, the following Academies, aided yearly by the society, are affiliated with Morehouse College: Americus Institute, Americus, Ga.; Jeruel Academy, Athens, Ga.; Walker Baptist Institute, Augusta, Ga.; Florida Institute, Live Oak, Fla.; Florida Baptist Academy, Jacksonville, Fla. A first scholarship of $25 is offered each year to the student in the Senior Class of these Academies taking highest rank, and entering Morehouse College. A second scholarship of $20 under similar conditions is awarded at each institution. The amount of the scholarship is to apply to the payment of fees, and to be payable on the same conditions as those offered in the College classes.

Through the kindness of Mr. Willard D. Chamberlin, of Dayton, Ohio, two cash prizes of thirty dollars each are awarded each year for the encouragement of Bible study and reading. These prizes are known as the Willard Chamberlin Scripture Reading Prize and the Samuel Graves Scripture Recitation Prize. They are open for competition to students in any department of the school.

For several years Mr. George W. Perkins, of New York, has kindly given each year the sum of twenty-five dollars to be used in the Academy for prizes in English Composition. Ten dollars is awarded each year to that student in the first or second year who writes the best descriptive essay, and fifteen dollars to that student in the third or fourth year who writes the best essay upon an assigned literary topic.

Entrance

Students who look forward to entering the College should fill out as fully as possible the application blank which will be furnished by the College office. The requirement for entrance upon the work of the College is the satisfactory completion of the work of the Academy outlined on pages 43-44. In general it may be said that Morehouse College insists upon the minimum of fifteen units for entrance upon College work required by reputable colleges throughout the country. A unit in any subject represents a year's study, constituting approximately a quarter of a full year's work in the secondary school. The four-year high school course is taken as a basis, and it is assumed that the length of the school year is from thirty-six to forty weeks, that a recitation period is from forty to sixty minutes in length, and that a study is pursued for four or five periods a week. In all cases except those of students from specially affiliated schools, or from other institutions in the Association of Colleges for Negro Youth, of which Morehouse College is a member, the College reserves the right to examine as fully as may seem necessary all candidates who present themselves for entrance.

Requirements for Degree

The requirement for graduation is the satisfactory completion of the work of eighteen courses. A course is the pursuit of one subject throughout a school year, with four recitations a week. A half-course is a subject similarly pursued for half a year, or a subject pursued throughout a school year with two recitations a week.

On the basis of 18 courses required, in each year a student should pass in an average of four and one-half courses; and no man is catalogued with a class if delinquent in more than one full course.

Hereafter (that is, in full force with the class of 1920 and those that come thereafter) the course of each student in the College will be guided by the following principle:

Each program of study for the college course must be so arranged as to include a Major of four courses from some one of five important groups or divisions of study, and a Minor of three courses from some other group or division. The following are the five groups used:

1. The Classics.

2. Modern Language (including English; but English 5, an elementary course in composition required of all students, while counting of course as one of the college courses, will not count as satisfying this elective principle). (English 6, though required of all, may also count with the electives.)

3. Natural Science.

4. History, Political and Social Science.

5. Philosophy and Mathematics.

In addition each program of study must include the following:

1. At least one course in English Composition.
2. One course in English Literature.
3. One course in Modern Language other than English.
4. One course in Mathematics.
5. One course in Natural Science.
6. One course in Social Science.
7. One course in History.
8. One course in Philosophy (and hereafter Psychology will be prerequisite to Ethics, and Ethics will be given every year).

In fulfillment of the above requirements the following courses are regularly open to Freshmen if their previous preparation is adequate:

English 5
 Latin 5
 Greek 2
 Greek 3
 French 1
 German 1

German 2
 History 1, 2 or 3
 Mathematics 1, 2 or 3
 Chemistry 2
 Agriculture
 Bible 4

After the Freshman year students may in any year enter any courses for which their preparation is adequate and which will be in harmony with the principle of Major and Minor already remarked. In the detailed description of courses that follows, the prerequisites for the more advanced courses are stated in each case. Certain courses (notably Ethics, Economics, Sociology, History 4, and Education) are regularly reserved for students of Junior or Senior grade.

DESCRIPTION OF COURSES

English

ENGLISH 5. (The number of the course, for convenience, follows on the numbers of courses in the Academy.) In the work of this course, which is required of all Freshmen, the emphasis is on practical work in composition. The large aim of the course is the development of power in expression. Attention is given to the theory of Description, Narration, Exposition, and Argumentation; but at least five-sixths of the lessons of the year are assignments in composition. Papers range in length from 200 to 2,000 words. In addition to numerous smaller themes in each of the large fields mentioned, and including the writing of anecdotes, news items, editorials, and sketches, each member of the course is required to write a short story, a full piece of work in exposition, two orations, two long briefs, one forensic, and two book reviews. Necessarily most of the reading consists of library assignments, but the following texts are required: Foster's Argumentation and Debating; Cairns's Forms of Discourse; Erskine's Written English; Shakespeare's The Tempest; and the classics in Maynard's English Classic Series giving Macaulay's Essay on Byron, De Quincey's Joan of Arc, and selections from Ruskin's Modern Painters.

PROFESSOR BRAWLEY.

ENGLISH 6. This course covers in broad outline the field of English Literature from Anglo-Saxon times to the present. The method of study emphasizes detail and technique as well as appreciation. Texts: Snyder and Martin's A Book of English Literature, and Shakespeare's The Two Gentlemen of Verona, and Othello, the one to represent the dramatist in his experimental period, and the other to represent him as a finished artist. Papers are called for at any time.

PROFESSORS BRAWLEY AND SWAIN.

In addition to the above courses in English, which are required of all students, the department offers three elective courses, any one of which will be given in any year in which not less than five students apply for the same. These are as follows:

ENGLISH 7. The Forms of Public Address, an advanced course in composition with special attention to oratory, debating, and practical public speaking. Text: Baker's "The Forms of Public Address." Prerequisite: English 5; may be taken in same year as English 6. (Given in 1917-18 as a half-course, but regularly to be given as a full course.)

PROFESSOR BRAWLEY.

ENGLISH 8. The English Drama, a course requiring the rapid reading of not less than fifty plays, with intensive study of one or two. More than half of Shakespeare's plays are read, with special attention to dramatic technique. Chief texts: Neilson's Chief Elizabethan Dramatists, Tatlock and Martin's Representative English Plays, and Dickinson's

Chief Contemporary Dramatists, with extensive library assignments. Prerequisites: English 5 and 6. (Not offered in 1917-18; to be given in 1918-19.)

ENGLISH 9. The History of the English Language, a course concerned with grammatical questions and giving an introduction to philology, to be taken to best advantage by those who have had as much Latin, Greek, French, and German as possible. Considerable attention is paid to Chaucer and other early writers, and in general the course is planned only for those who wish to pursue English technically. Prerequisites: English 5 and 6. (Not offered in 1917-18; to be given whenever there are at least five applicants.)

Greek

The courses in Greek are designed to follow upon the course in elementary Greek in the Academy; but Greek 2 will not count for college credit unless the program of preparatory work offered for college entrance includes both Physics and Chemistry.

LATIN 6. In this course the ground covered consists of further reading in Horace, Tacitus's Germania, and Terence's Phormio, with study of Roman life.

German

GERMAN 1. In the first year attention is given mainly to the mastering of elementary German grammar. To increase the student's vocabulary of conversational words and idiomatic expressions, some easy text dealing with German life and customs is read during the second semester, and conversation is based upon this. Songs and poems are memorized. German is used in the class-room as far as practicable.

PROFESSORS MERRIHEW AND ANDERSON.

GERMAN 2. In the second year one short story and one of Schiller's classics are read. The study of German grammar is continued. Stories are told in German which form the basis of composition. Conversation is used as far as practicable in the class-room.

French

FRENCH 1. A course in elementary French giving a thorough drill in the elements of grammar and composition, followed by the reading of graded selections of connected French prose, the general aim being to afford a basis for a good reading knowledge of the French language. Texts: Aldrich and Foster's Elementary French, and French Reader.

PROFESSOR JOHNSON.

Mathematics

The aim of instruction in this department is to form habits of accurate and precise expression, to develop the power of independent and logical thinking, and to teach the methods and principles of each subject.

MATHEMATICS 1. This is a half-course in Solid Geometry. It makes clear the concepts of three-dimensional space. Industrial problems and concrete applications are given to show the use and value of the fundamental theorems. Required as early in the college course as possible. Text: Wentworth's Solid Geometry, revised.

PROFESSOR ARCHER.

MATHEMATICS 2. This, a half-course in College Algebra, after a rapid review of quadratic equations, considers higher equations and systems, the progressions, the binomial theorem, logarithms, interest and annuities, and the series. Required as early in the college course as possible. Text: Wentworth's College Algebra, revised.

PROFESSOR ARCHER.

MATHEMATICS 3. The half-course in Trigonometry extends through the solution of triangles. The course aims to give the fundamental formulæ of trigonometry and a permanent command of logarithms. Required as early as possible in the college course. Text: Wells's Plane Trigonometry.

PROFESSOR ARCHER.

MATHEMATICS 4. An elective half-course in Analytic Geometry gives the different systems of plane co-ordinates; equation of loci, straight lines, conic sections and their elementary properties; equations of second degree; common higher plane curves.

PROFESSOR ARCHER.

History

Five half-courses in History are offered, all being open to students above the Freshman year. Two are required, and the two must include History 1. Ordinarily two or three are given in any school year. In the school year 1917-18 the half-courses numbered 1, 3, and 5 have been given.

HISTORY 1. A half-course in the Foundations of Modern Europe. The work follows in general the plan of Trenholme's A Syllabus for the History of Western Europe. Matters purely political and military are given less attention than is ordinarily given to them in more elementary courses. More stress is laid upon territorial changes, constitutional developments, internal reforms, and other economic and social phenomena. At least one thesis of not less than four thousand words upon some topic assigned in connection with the course is required of each student. Text: Robinson's History of Western Europe (together with the abridged edition of the Readings by the same author). PROFESSOR FORRESTER.

HISTORY 2. An advanced half-course in English History. Text: Cross's A History of England. PROFESSOR BRAWLEY.

HISTORY 3. A half-course in American History. The work is intended to be advanced and intensive, and emphasis is placed on social and economic questions. The chief text is Thompson's History of the United States, but the library assignments are extensive. PROFESSOR HAYNES.

HISTORY 4. A half-course in the essentials of the history of the Negro in America. In general method the plan of the work follows that of the chief text. Brawley's A Short History of the American Negro; but much attention is paid to the same author's The Negro in Literature and Art, and there is wide reading in such authorities in history as Du Bois, Blake, and Williams, as well as reading of the best prose and verse by Negro writers. A thesis is required, and in general the work is designed to meet the needs of those who desire training in independent study.

PROFESSOR BRAWLEY.

HISTORY 5. A half-course dealing with world-problems of the last twenty-five years, special stress being laid upon the causes leading up to the present world conflict. There is wide reading in books by foreign and American authorities, the starting point being the era of Bismarck. A thesis exhibiting independent research is required. Chief text: Gooch's History of Our Time. PROFESSOR SWAIN.

Economics

A full course, conducted by means of class discussions, assigned readings, and lectures. The aim is to acquaint the student with the development and significance of the industrial organization of society, the principles governing the consumption, production, and distribution of wealth, and such representative economic problems as labor movements and legislation, taxation, transportation, etc. The course is made thoroughly practical by directing the attention and thought of students to current economic problems and activities. Special emphasis is placed upon the economic history and activities of the Negro in American Life. Text: Seager's Introduction to Economics. (Not offered in 1917-18; to be offered in 1918-19.) PROFESSOR HAYNES.

Sociology

SOCIOLOGY 1. A full course in the Principles of Sociology, conducted by means of class discussions, assigned readings, lectures, and field work. The aims of the course are to acquaint the student with the theories of social progress and with social factors and forces now at work; to give an elementary knowledge of statistics; and to give practical experience in studying groups. Each student is required to take part in an investigation of some problem in the life of the Negro in Atlanta. Text: Carver's Sociology and Social Progress, with readings in Giddings, Spencer, Ward, Ross, Davenport, Doncaster, King, Devine, and the United States Census. (Offered in 1917-18; not to be offered in 1918-19.)

PROFESSOR HAYNES.

SOCIOLOGY 2. An elective half-course in Modern Philanthropy, conducted by means of class discussions, lectures, required readings, and field work. The course aims to acquaint the student with the leading urban, rural, and national problems connected with the social life of to-day; the economic, biological, psychological, and sociological basis of Philanthropy; and the most effective remedies employed by modern philanthropists. Each student is required to analyze a number of cases handled in the city of Atlanta and to engage in some form of voluntary social service.

PROFESSOR HAYNES.

Philosophy

In Logic and Psychology half-courses are given, and in Ethics a full course is given, as follows:

LOGIC. The outlines of formal Logic are studied with special attention to terms and their meaning, to the logical import of propositions with a view to inculcating accuracy of statement, and to analysis of arguments and detection of fallacies.

PROFESSOR ARCHER.

PSYCHOLOGY. The course takes up the nervous system; sensation and organs of sense; the facts of consciousness studied from the natural science point of view; perception, memory, imagination, emotion, the will, and the relation of Psychology to Philosophy and Ethics. PROFESSOR HARVEY.

ETHICS. The subject of Ethics is treated historically, and the various types of ethical theory traced in their development from ancient times. Search is made for the elements of truth in all theories, and the superiority of the ethics of Christianity is shown. PROFESSOR HOPE.

Education

In connection with the Teachers' Professional Department of Spelman Seminary, a full course in the subjects of Education and Pedagogy is given. The first half of the year is devoted to the History of Education; the second half is devoted to Pedagogy.

English Bible

BIBLE 4. In the Freshman Year a half-course in the study of the English Bible is required. Incorporated in this in 1918-19 will be the special study of Sunday-school methods. PROFESSOR HUBERT.

Physics

PHYSICS 2. About one-half the time is given to class discussions, lecture-table demonstrations, quizzes, and problems; the rest to laboratory work. During the first term emphasis is laid upon mechanics, molecular physics, and heat, followed in the second term by electricity, sound, and light. The method of treatment is analytical. The course presupposes a full course in Descriptive Physics and one in Trigonometry. Text: Kimball's College Physics.

PROFESSOR HARVEY.

Chemistry

CHEMISTRY 2. It is the object of this course to give a definite idea of the fundamental laws of General Chemistry. Much emphasis is laid upon the application of the laws and theories of chemical equilibrium, solution, and of electrolytic dissociation. The subject matter is discussed in the combined lectures, recitations, and quizzes. The laboratory work requires at least four hours a week. Chemistry 1, given in the Academy, is a prerequisite. Texts: Alex. Smith's General Chemistry for Colleges (new edition), with laboratory manual to accompany this text.

PROFESSOR HARRY.

CHEMISTRY 3. A laboratory course including the study of simple reactions in the analysis of simple solutions, blow-pipe analysis, the separating of metals and acids in solution, etc. Two hours weekly are devoted to a review of the fundamental principles of chemistry, and the theory of analysis, in the first semester. In the second semester the emphasis is on applied chemistry, including laboratory work, class discussions, and excursions. Text: McGregory's Qualitative Chemical Analysis and Allyn's Elementary Applied Chemistry. PROFESSOR HARVEY.

Geology

The purpose of the course in Geology is to set forth clearly the present status of knowledge relative to the science. The theoretical and interpretative elements enter in and help to clear up hypothetical elements and also to stimulate thought. Half of the time is given to laboratory work including the examination and study of topographical maps, folios, and other publications of the United States Geological Survey, and of minerals and fossils. Field work is emphasized. A thesis of two thousand words on some assigned subject is required of each student. The classification of plants, animals, and rocks is included. Prerequisites: Physics 2; Chemistry 2. Text: Chamberlin and Salisbury's College Geology. (Not offered in 1917-18.)

Biology

BIOLOGY 1. The aim of this course is to give a general knowledge of the fundamental principles of life phenomena relating to both plants and animals. A study is made of the broader fundamental laws and interrelations of organisms, the consideration of which belongs strictly neither to botany nor to zoology. Text: Needham's General Biology, lectures, laboratory and field work.

PROFESSOR HARRY.

BIOLOGY 2. A full course in Zoology laying stress on the study of vertebrates. The course is designed to be in sufficient detail to enable the student to keep the morphological relations of the various organs and systems of organs constantly before the mind, and to make the study a comparative one. It is given especially for students looking forward to the profession of medicine. Prerequisite: Biology 1.

Agriculture

This course is offered to college students who have but a short time to give to the subject and who desire a brief survey of the whole field. The aim of the course is to interest the students in growing plants and animals, and to acquaint them with some of the fundamental principles of this growth, not that they may necessarily become farmers, but for the educational training and intelligent interest in the daily life of the community and the nation that this knowledge brings. The course is conducted by means of text-book (Warren's Elements of Agriculture), lectures, laboratory and field work.

PROFESOR HARRY.

Manual Training.

A special course is offered as an elective to students above the Freshman year, being designed primarily for the training of those who may be called upon to teach the subject. The course includes the arrangement, names and care of tools, cardboard construction, knife-work, exercises in sawing and planing, the designing and construction of small articles, mechanical drawing, and the planning and making of furniture.

DEPARTMENTS OF INSTRUCTION

English

The instruction given in English has three distinct objects: Proficiency in English composition, skill in public address, and the development of literary appreciation. In addition to the regular work in course, each student in the third and fourth year classes must appear in regular rhetorical exercises before the whole school.

ENGLISH 1. In the first year there is constant drill in composition, with emphasis on technical grammar, sentence and paragraph structure, poetic forms, etc. Text: Lockwood and Emerson's Composition and Rhetoric.

ENGLISH 2. In the second year composition is continued, the classics read being used as a basis. The following representative American classics are studied: Irving's Sketch Book (selections), Bryant's Thanatopsis and other poems, Poe's The Raven and other poems, Hawthorne's The Great Stone Face, Longfellow's The Courtship of Miles Standish, and Evangeline, Lowell's The Vision of Sir Launfal, Whittier's Snow-Bound, Hale's The Man Without a Country, Washington's Farewell Address, Webster's First Bunker Hill Oration, and selections from Lincoln.

ENGLISH 3. In the first half of the third year an introductory course in English History is given as a basis for the classics to follow. Text: Montgomery's English History. In the second half of the third year Shakespeare's Macbeth, The Merchant of Venice, and Julius Cæsar, and Milton's Minor Poems (in the Eclectic English Classics, American Book Co.), are studied.

ENGLISH 4. In the fourth year more classics are read in accordance with the requirements imposed upon high schools and academies throughout the country, and the work in composition is continued. The following classics, in the Standard English Classics series (Ginn & Co.), are studied: Gray's Elegy, Goldsmith's The Deserted Village, Scott's The Lady of the Lake, Coleridge's The Rime of the Ancient Mariner, Macaulay's Life of Samuel Johnson, George Eliot's Silas Marner, and Tennyson's Gareth and Lynette, Lancelot and Elaine, and The Passing of Arthur, supplemented by Miller's Practical English Composition, Book 4.

Latin

The object of instruction in Greek and Latin is to give the letter and spirit of the classics, and to improve English expression. With this purpose in view, word forms, word groups and idioms are studied. Attention is given to English words of Greek or Latin origin. Translation is required in easy, idiomatic English, and the courses are further enhanced by historical reference and art illustration. The work of the four years of Latin in the Classical Course is as follows:

LATIN 1. In the first year daily drill is given in the fundamentals of Latin grammar, selections in Latin authors of increasing difficulty being read in the later months of the course. Text: Collar and Daniell's First Year Latin.

LATIN 2. Cæsar's Commentaries, 4 Books, with practice in Composition.

LATIN 3. Cicero: 4 Orations against Catiline, and oration Pro Poeta Archia. Sallust's Catiline. Composition.

LATIN 4. Virgil's Aeneid, 6 Books. Composition.

Greek

GREEK 1. In the third year of the Classical Course Elementary Greek is given. Text: White's First Greek Book.

GREEK 2. Xenophon's Anabasis, 4 books, with practice in composition. Required in the fourth year of the Classical Course.

Mathematics

ALGEBRA 1. Throughout the first year daily instruction is given in the fundamentals of Algebra. Text: Wells's Algebra for Secondary Schools.

GEOMETRY 1. A full year of Plane Geometry is given, in the second year for classical students and in the third year for Scientific. Text: Wentworth and Smith's Plane Geometry.

GEOMETRY 2 AND TRIGONOMETRY. Half-courses in Solid Geometry and Plane Trigonometry in fourth year of Scientific Course. Texts: Wentworth's Solid Geometry, revised, and Wells's Plane Trigonometry.

History and Civics

Three half-courses in History and Civics are offered in the earlier years of the Academy as follows:

(1) CIVICS. An elementary half-course in Civil Government is designed to impress the fundamental principles of American government. Text: Boynton's Civics.

(2) GREEK AND ROMAN HISTORY. With the specific purpose of supplementing the work in Latin, and with the still larger purpose of general culture, a half-course in the outlines of Greek and Roman History is given in the third year of the Classical Course. Text: Botsford's Ancient History.

(3) ENGLISH HISTORY. In the last half of the second year a half-course in English History is given not only to broaden the student's information but also to furnish a background for a study of the English classics to follow. Text: Montgomery's English History.

(4) GENERAL HISTORY, OR COMMERCIAL LAW. In the fourth year of the Scientific Course a course in either one of these subjects is given running throughout the year.

Physics

PHYSICS 1. This course is offered in such a way as to bring out the relation of Physics to daily life. It embraces physical measurements in Mechanics, Sound, Light, and Electricity. Four periods a week are given to laboratory work. Text: Mann and Twiss's Physics, with Wauchope's laboratory manual.

Chemistry

CHEMISTRY 1. The course comprises lectures, recitations and quizzes. Four hours a week are given to laboratory work. It is the aim to give a clear idea of the field of Descriptive Chemistry. Emphasis is laid upon the laws, theories, and applications of Chemistry. Text: McPherson and Henderson's First Course in Chemistry, with manual to accompany the text.

Botany

A full course in Botany, with laboratory and field work, is given, to be taken preferably in the first year. Text: Bergen's Elements of Botany.

Physiography

A full course in Physical Georgraphy is given, to be taken to best advantage in the first year. The work is illustrated by the projection lantern and by field and laboratory work.

Manual Training

The course in Manual Training presupposes a course in wood-working. The work of the year is in cabinet-making and mechanical drawing. The student designs, makes, and upholsters some piece of furniture on the Arts and Crafts style. The other work is in geometrical drawing, isometric projections, and copying from machine patterns. Text: Cross's Mechanical Drawing.

Music

Instruction in Vocal Music, with two lessons a week, is given throughout the first two years of the course. In the third year the work is continued, with emphasis on the history and theory of Music.

English Bible

Two lessons a week are given throughout the course, the object being to give a comprehensive knowledge of the whole Bible.

The inadequacy of the instruction given in the public schools, especially in the country, whence many of our best students come, renders it necessary to maintain an efficient English Preparatory Department. This department comprises the three higher grades of the public schools.

Students who finish the work of this department are thoroughly prepared to enter the classes of the Academic Course of the College, or to pass the State examination for teachers. A thorough and systematic review of the Elementary Branches is planned in order that a student may have a practical knowledge as well as a basis for a business knowledge. The Natural Movement of Practical Writing as planned by the Whitehouse Educational System is given with a view to insuring rapid and legible handwriting.

The work in Agriculture gives each student some knowledge of preparing and caring for gardens, choice of live stock and poultry, detecting diseases of plants and animals, and of the methods of eradication of the common pests of plants and animals.

The aim of the Manual Training is to teach the names and uses of tools, the use of the hand as well as the brain, and accuracy along all lines of work. The next aim is to develop the power of concentration. Every student in the department is given work in Manual Training for two hours and a half every week.

The work of the course is in the following subjects:

Arithmetic	Reading
Drawing	Spelling
Geography	Literature
Grammar	United States History
Bible	Knife-work
Cardboard Construction	Elementary Agriculture
Wood Working	Vocal Music
Penmanship
